Presented by the Beta Club of Aberdeen High School
Aberdeen, N. C.

Foreword

Here it is, the record of your senior year—

or junior, sophomore or freshman year.

This was the year you studied Macbeth—

or Julius Ceaser or American literature.

This was the year you, as a Senior, were honored in assembly—or received your class ring or learned to drive.

This was the year you were accepted by the college of your choice—

or qualified for Beta Club or made the big adjustment to high school.

This was the year you won an honor—

or made the team or decided what your life's work would be.

This was your year,

a very special year like no other in your whole life—

Aberdeen 1964-65!

We have tried to record it exactly as you would wish.

Here are the people, the classes, the organizations,

the activities which that year comprised.

We hope we have captured the spirit of your year,

and have caught the very moments you want most to remember.

TO YOU . . .

Who Made it Possible

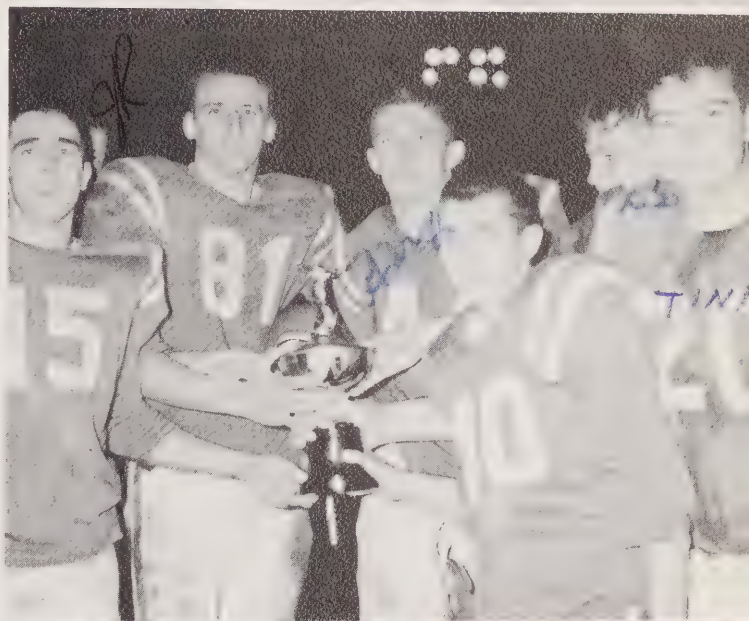

by your intelligence, courage, and hard work, for us to obtain a memorable year of football at Aberdeen and state-wide recognition. Your hot summer practices, mutual gripes, and dusty scrimmages are but fond memories in the wake of an unbeaten season.

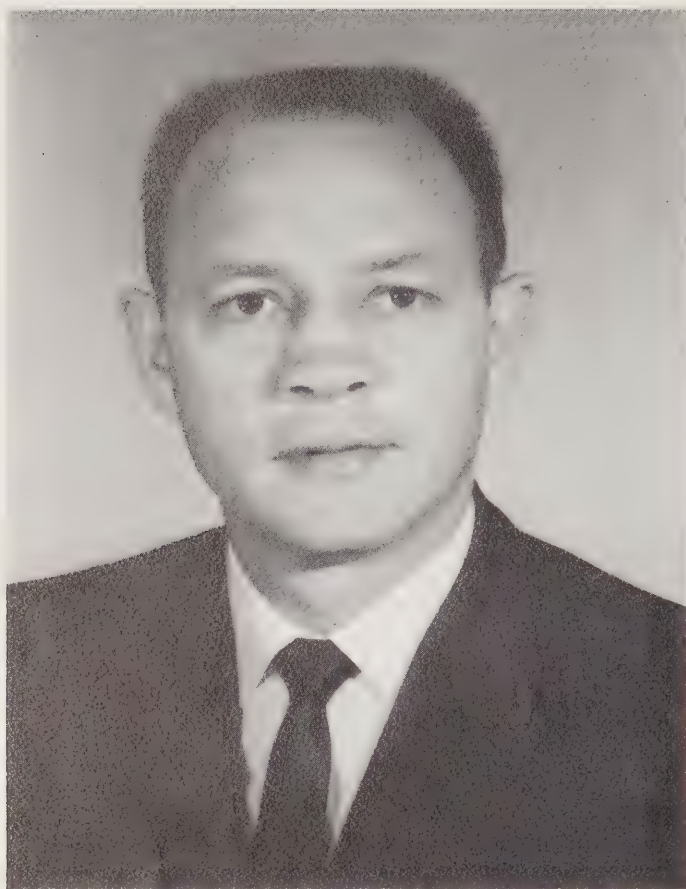

Great things were expected from you, and all expectations were fulfilled completely.

Your accomplishments were no less than remarkable—you gave us the first undefeated season in the history of eleven-man football at Aberdeen. You gave us our first All-State player ever; and many of you were honored by gaining berths on the All-East, All-South Central, and All-Conference teams.

A new feeling has come to our school—a feeling of victory and pride. And you, the Red Devils of the 1964 football season, made it possible...

To you, our football team, the Annual Staff fondly dedicates this volume of the Timekeeper.

Administration

More than any other person within the school, Mr. J. R. Brendell is responsible for the atmosphere of freedom and learning at A.H.S. His duties range from policy-making to the supervision of the faculty; and from organization of schedules to disciplining of students. Although he is occasionally the target of disgruntled student criticism, Mr. Brendell always keeps the interests of the students first in his consideration.

One of the most important but sometimes least recognized members of our school program is our secretary, Mrs. Eva Wallace. Her work seems insignificant to us when we think only of asking for a tardy pass or of buying notebook paper, but actually her duties are far more numerous and responsible than we realize. In literally hundreds of jobs ranging from balancing the school's budget to answering the telephone, Mrs. Wallace helps keep the school running smoothly and efficiently.

Lofty mountains of knowledge reaching upward into the horizons
of learning
--this is our faculty.

Wonderingly we gaze upon these heights
scaling the hillsides
of education.

We neither look back, nor do we cease, but ascend ever higher-- experienced teachers guiding the way.

Dear Amy,
It has really
been a great pleasure to me having you in classes the past 2 years!
You have really done
a great job in physics and chemistry as well as in all your other classes.

I hope you get all the knowledge and understanding necessary from your up-coming college work. Work hard and you will go a long way!!

Best wishes of a real fine boy throughout all life's adventures!!

SENIORS

It has been a long time since the class of '65 started the steps of education, and now, as Seniors, are standing at the top of the stairs. When they look back, they see all the things that have been so dear to them through the years—a new heartache is felt as they enjoy the thrills of the last football game, the tears of the last dance, the last track meet, the last basketball game, the last prom, the last assembly, and the familiar, "We're number one!"

Seniors! They all breathe a sigh at the now familiar title, the one that took so long to achieve—but then they look into the future and realize that there are many stairs left to climb. In a sense these steps will continue over their lives; they have merely reached a landing place between finishing one flight and beginning another.

UNDERCLASSMEN

As individuals we are as different as it is possible: gullible Freshmen and cynical Juniors, 95 pound wrestlers and 210 pound football players, diligent workers and "just-get-by" loafers. Within Aberdeen High, however, we were united in common endeavors. Whether in Student Council projects, or struggling through English, the spirit of friendship and companionship bonded us in mutual purposes. Spurred by friendly interclass competition, we strove to make a name for our class. We cheered our athletic teams, sold magazines, and stood up for the seniors during assemblies. Tests were a common experience to us all. The experiences we gained learning and working together taught us an invaluable lesson in human relationships which will be useful in the future, regardless of the course we may follow.

STUDENT LIFE

Students of many backgrounds and experiences offer a great variety of individuality, and at the same time, a desire and need for community identification at Aberdeen High School. Footsteps from every walk of life parade in the halls of Aberdeen and bring to it a multiplicity of views, ideas, and thoughts from which spring exceptional sorts of activities, customs, and occurrences. But all these differences blend to form an exciting, stimulating student life.

O RGANIZATIONS

Aberdeen is fortunate in having many varied organizations. These range from service organizations to those that promote school spirit. These clubs actually do much more than bring the students together; they aid the school in their various projects. Each group tries to serve the school in a capacity that best utilizes the special interests of the group. In that way, the school and the student benefit from Aberdeen High's numerous organizations.

Staff

At the beginning of the year, the members of the TIMEKEEPER staff were confronted with the seemingly impossible task of producing a year-book. We had many problems—can't find layouts, typewriter's broken, pictures to remake, too many pages, NOT ENOUGH MONEY!!! But in spite of all the numerous headaches, sleepless nights, and unexpected difficulties, pictures were made, layouts completed, and copy typed—and off to the press it went! Finally came the thrill of that long awaited day when the 1965 TIMEKEEPER was presented to the school.

This spirit, roused by the cheerleaders, supplied the students with a great desire to support their teams and win..

Win or lose, spirit stays high.

Cheerleaders wholeheartedly supported our boys for the victory over Oxford Orphanage.
